SUN CITY & PILANESBERG NATIONAL PARK TOUR

Sun City: Set in a fairly bleak part of Southern Africa, two hours by road from the metropolitan centers of the Witwatersrand "the city that never sleeps" is a glittering pleasure resort. Sun City is the inspiration of self-made multimillionaire hotelier Sol Kerzner. In the 70's when the complex was built, the land formed part of the quasi-independent "republic" Bophuthatswana, where gambling, officially banned in South Africa at the time was legal. The casino was a key element in the resort's initial success, which then included only one luxury hotel, a man-made lake and a challenging 18-hole golf course designed by the former South African golfing champion, Gary Player.

The Palace of the Lost City: is the latest addition to the vast complex. In the vicinity of Sun City are several worthwhile natural attractions that should not be missed.

Valley of the Waves: The Valley of Waves provides hours of entertainment and fun in the sun for the whole family! With the amazing Roaring Lagoon in its centre, The Valley of Waves offers soft, white sandy beaches for relaxation and games, the meandering lazy river for a gentle tube ride and exhilarating water slides and rides for the more adventurous.

Pilanesberg National Park: The circular layout of the park can be traced to prehistoric times, when this area was the fiery crater of a volcano. Around the central Mankwe Dam lie three rings of little hills or mounds of cooled lava - and the whole area is raised above the plain. The decision to establish a reserve here was economic; to benefit the local people, and to complement the nearby resort of Sun City. Re-stocking the overgrazed farmland turned into one of the most ambitious game relocation ventures ever attempted in South Africa. Appropriately called Operation Genesis, it involved the release of 6000 mammals of 19 species into a new reserve. Elephant, black rhino and leopard head an impressive list of wildlife that can be seen at Pilanesberg today.
